NOTICE TO MARINERS.

During the process of Deepening the Channel at the entrance to Honolulu harbor the Dredger will be in operation night and day.

At night there will be a Danger Signal placed on the forward derrick of Dredger, about 30 feet above sea level, which can be seen by all vessels approaching the harbor. The Signal consists of 3 Red lights and a White light—as in the diagram—the red lights being about 3 feet apart, with the white light in the center.

All steamers crossing the Bar will stop at a safe distance from the Dredger and give one blast of their whistle, which will be answered by a single blast from the Dredger, to be followed by three blasts from the Dredger when the passage is clear and they can proceed.

The Tug will be on hand when not otherwise engaged to assist sailing craft in passing the Dredger when necessary.

C. N. SPENCER,
Minister of the Interior.

THE DAILY BULLETIN.

Pledged to neither Sect nor Party,
But Established for the Benefit of All.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 21, 1892.

The Advertiser has suggested a grand popular demonstration to welcome the Pacific grayhound China into port through the deepened channel. At the same time it would be in order for our contemporary to tender a humble apology to the late Minister of the Interior and the contractors for its efforts, in the early stages of the dredging operations, to represent everybody and everything connected with the contract as frauds. It is like other matters wherein the Advertiser took its cue from the irresponsible scribblers and backers of the now defunct English page of Ka Leo, with no other reason or motive but to make political capital against the administration. The Advertiser screamed with ridicule every morning over a loose rivet or broken spud on the dredge. Now when results have put its ignoble course to shame, it adopts an "I told you so" air, and glories in the prospect of the celebration of its own discomfiture.

AN OPIUM REPORT.

On the 27th July last a statement was made in the Legislature alleging that some opium said to have been seized at Ewa had turned into dirt in the hands of the Deputy Sheriff. The matter was proposed to be referred for investigation to the select committee on opium already appointed and which was then supposed to be investigating the subject. Hon. J. E. Bush and others of that ilk objected on the grounds that the said committee had done, were doing, and would do nothing, and would find out nothing if it was left to them. Hon. J. H. Waipulani moved for the appointment of another select committee on opium, which was agreed to, Mr. Bush promising with his usual braggadocio and self-esteem that he would sift the scandals relating to opium to the bottom, clear up the mysteries and miracles, and bring home the guilt to the proper parties, if he were entrusted with the investigation. He claimed he already knew who were engaged in the traffic, although his evidence was not producible immediately. The committee appointed was J. E. Bush, chairman, J. H. Waipulani, J. N. Kapa-hu, D. W. Pua and Wm. White. The Chairman immediately inserted an advertisement in his own paper and in the Advertiser that he would "receive all information from any party or parties, that will lead to the obtaining and collection of such facts as will check smuggling and the illicit use and sale of opium in the country."

After about eight weeks of no doubt protracted and severe labor on his part, though it does not seem to have resulted in brain fever as yet, as the result of the investigations Mr. Bush came into the Legislature yesterday with, in one hand, about 35 tins of opium obtained surreptitiously by a bogus deal on the part of his spies with some Chinamen, and, in the other, a printed pamphlet of about 26 pages, 17 of which are taken up by a history of the drug and its effects in all countries from "the remotest antiquity" down to the present day, probably inserted to distract attention from the scarcity of real results and increase the amount of the printer's bill. This pamphlet containing the result of the lucubrations of Mr. Bush or some one else's brains (or their joint efforts perhaps) deserves for its English style and spelling to be embalmed in history with "The Third Warning Voice" and "English as She is Spoken." Its contents display in an immense amount of verbiage that the committee have succeeded in nothing that they promised to do. After all those weeks of blatant promise of what he would rake up, and sift, and prove, with their train of expense and public appeals for help, he says nothing about the special reason for which the committee was appointed—the Ewa matter—but promises a report on that later. In fact the whole may be summed up as, "The mountain in labor brought forth a mouse," or, as the Scotch say, "muckle din and little 'oo."

The following extract, which is written in more correct English than the greater part of the effusion, will show in Mr. Bush's own language his opinion of what he has done (the italics are ours):

Your Committee has therefore considered it a duty to direct all its efforts to the unravelling of the mysteries of the opium trade in this country and throw some light on the daily reported violations of the laws. Its Chairman has availed himself every means of getting to the truth and has been willing to receive and use any information, to examine any man who might be willing to testify on the subject, as is proven by the advertisements he inserted to that effect in all the local papers; we have also used detectives and other pro- per means. But, whilst hereinafter submitting to the Honorable Body the technical results of our investigations, it is with the deepest regret that we have come to the following conclusions: That the smuggling of opium in this country has grown to such proportions, so many prominent or influential citizens are said to be engaged or interested in it, and its profits are so large, that it is next to impossible to obtain any substantial information to find any man willing, simply for virtue's sake, to run the risks of incurring the wrath and vengeance of those engaged in the opium rings, who are bound to use every effort to procure the acquittal of such of their accomplices who may be discovered. In a word, your Committee met with the same difficulties and obstacles which rendered impotent the similar Committees appointed during the present and last sessions of the Hawaiian Legislature, to investigate into the marvelous transformation of opium into bricks, while on its way between the Police Station and the Custom House. The men who manipulated that daring leger-de-main are still in town and in the same business, and believed to be still in government service. But all that the seekers after truth can obtain, are the "outré" current among the public, the rumors that may leak out from time to time mainly through the rivalry of the various rings. But, from these alone, together with the fact that so many a police officer, while on the tract of some smuggled goods, has been taken away from it and sent off in a wrong direction on some fool's errand, we feel justified in fearlessly asserting that opium-smuggling has now reached to be an organized traffic in which several ships are engaged, that two rings at least, if not more, actually exist, to which belong not only wealthy traders, but also many of the government custom and police officials—that is to say, the very officers whose duty it would be to check it; and the general suspicions are such that higher members of the government, lawyers, merchants and even men in banking business are publicly charged of being connected with it, thereby rendering possible the permanence in office of suspected officials; more than that, the evils extend even into the very steps of the Throne, as it is boldly asserted by those who take into consideration the notorious favor, the extraordinary and unjustifiable though, undisputed intimacy existing between persons of the highest rank and some noted, well-known opium-smugglers, who do not deny but rather glorify themselves in being such!

But we repeat that, in presence of the complexity and connivance of so many persons of influence, in presence of the incapacity of a weak administration and of the slowness of the judicial department, it is impossible to obtain any information such as would lead to a judicial condemnation. He says he "has availed himself every means of getting to the truth," but that "all that the seekers after truth can obtain are the outré current among the public, the rumors that may leak out." Nevertheless, on these shadowy grounds alone he does not hesitate to state that "we feel justified in asserting" that "many of the Government customs and police officials," "higher members of the Government, lawyers, merchants and even men in banking business," are guilty of complicity in the illicit and iniquitous traffic; nay, he does not hesitate to attack the Throne and the Judiciary on the same baseless suspicions. Did any one ever before see such grave charges so palpably manufactured "out of whole cloth" as these are? He says in effect we found these rumors and after eight weeks of investigation we leave them still as rumors, having found no proof or foundation for them. In a word, the wildest imaginings heard on the streets are used, under cover of legislative privilege, to slander not only the Throne, the Judiciary and the Government service (which was to be expected from his conduct in the past), but also the respectable professional and business classes of the community without the shadow of a scintilla of proof to back him up. As has been seen so often before, Mr. Bush's idea of sifting scandal and bringing the guilty parties to the bar of public opinion is shown to consist in taking up the slanders of the slums, clothing them in extravagant and exaggerated diction, putting them into permanent form in print, and scattering them broadcast around the world to outrage and shame a community, whose chief evil is that it has to support in its midst creatures of Mr. Bush's stamp, who, from behind an alleged superior and select sanctity, endeavor to befoul and bemire everything and everyone who does not follow in their devious and devilish footsteps.

There are many other sections of equally false and vicious a nature (rendered amusing only by their queer attempts at English), but enough has been said for the present, as we propose in the near future to further extract from this precious production material for the indignation or amusement of our readers, although we do not propose to do as the Advertiser has done this morning—namely, print Mr. Bush's wild and slanderous charges without giving at the same time the facts on which Mr. Bush alleges that he bases his groundless assertions.

Fatal Accident.
On Friday, at Lihue Plantation, while five German laborers were digging away a bank of earth, the bank caved in on three of them, killing one man by suffocation. The others were rescued. The dead man leaves a widow and family. The men had been previously warned of the danger of digging under the bank, but they did not heed the warning. This is the third fatal accident of the same kind in these islands within a few weeks—one each on Oahu, Maui and Kauai.
